

The 2021 Update

Moving from Remote Learning to Hybrid Learning

“It offers students and faculty multiple learning experiences that can serve a diverse range of students, including non-traditional ones, who must balance academic demands with other life demands.”

Director of Higher Education, Americas, Microsoft Education Industry

What to consider:

Many of the same technologies apply in a hybrid environment (online conferencing, digital whiteboards, captioning, etc.)

Consider best practices for accessible recordings (enunciate, one speaker at a time, clear audio with little background noise)

Take advantage of the opportunity for more accessibility and inclusion
